

Hello, I'm Colt Pini.

I design and develop web applications and sites and have been for over 12 years. I love JS, the open web stack, and sketch. I have led teams of designers and developers in building small and large products that support over 130 languages and millions of users.

Sr. Front-end Developer

GitHub / 2017–2018

- Led an effort to create a web based code editor.
- Worked remotely with an international team using a Ruby on Rails stack.
- Shipped quickly and efficiently breaking down the application to chunks that could be shipped every few days.

Lead Web Developer / Manager

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints / 2015–2017

- Created a system of sharing web components that dropped development time from months to hours.
- Led a team of 12 front end developers.
- Created and trained best practices and standards resulting in stronger more maintainable code, and better cross team collaboration.
- Assessed new technology and architected solutions that could drive down maintenance and development cost that included investigation and use of React / Redux and Native Web Components.

Principal Ux Designer

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints / 2011–2015

- Led a team of interaction and visual designers for a brand overhaul and design system update.
- Worked closely with product owners to discover and improve interaction pain points in applications, resulting in increases of over 40% user success.
